GRADUATE SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT (MBA) MASTER'S PROGRAM

The Graduate School of Management (GSM) curriculum is very flexible, allowing students to pursue a broad range of interests.

Our five learning objectives: lead with purpose, redefine business, think globally, leverage diversity, and dare to create a better future, will help students grow into individuals with a global mindset ready to tackle any challenge they may encounter in their future careers.

Students can either study a generalized MBA or choose to focus on one of the four specializations listed below

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF ASIA PACIFIC STUDIES MASTER'S PROGRAM

The Graduate School of Asia Pacific Studies (GSA) aims to cultivate individuals who will contribute to the sustainable development of and coexistence in the Asia Pacific region.

Students will possess broad knowledge across many fields including, but not limited to, administration, environment, economics, sociology, cultural studies, and tourism. In addition, they will also nurture their practical problem-solving skills required for the development of the Asia Pacific region.

Students can benefit from this interdisciplinary approach as they can research complex topics that intersect between different divisions by customizing their curriculum to better match their research.

APU ALUMNI VOICE

I had been wanting to pursue higher studies in Japan for quite some time. As a former employee of Ritsumeikan University in India, I chose to go for APU's AACSB- and AMBA-accredited MBA program. The small, compact class room sizes at APU's graduate school create an efficient study environment. As one of the most diverse universities in Japan, with students and faculty from all corner of the world, my time at APU taught me the value of cultural differences. Moreover, APU offered ample networking opportunities with various organisations globally.
