

Hitotsubashi University (National) School of International and Public Policy

◆ Program name

Asian Public Policy Program

◆ Degrees:

Master of Public Policy (Public Economics)

◆ Credit and years needed for graduation:

44 credits including 16 credits from four required courses,
2 years for completion of the master's course

◆ Address:

2-1 Naka, Kunitachi, Tokyo
186-8601, Japan

Features of University <http://www.hit-u.ac.jp/eng/>

Founded in 1875, Hitotsubashi University is a national university for social sciences. The University is a leading Japanese University in economics and business, and has produced many government and business leaders as well as prominent academics. Today it has four departments, five graduate schools, three professional schools and two research institutes, covering the disciplines of business, economics, public policy, law, and social studies. The university has an enrollment of over 6,000 undergraduate and graduate students, and a faculty and staff numbering over 550. There is a considerable international student population, accounting for close to 12 percent of total enrollment. The university's alumni association (Josui-kai) has a strong and active network in Japan and abroad, and supports both the campus life of students and the career development of graduates.

The university's main campus is located in Kunitachi, an attractive western suburb of Metropolitan Tokyo, in an area specially designated as a "cultural and educational zone". With its Romanesque buildings, the site provides an ideal environment for higher learning.

Chiyoda Campus is centrally located in Hitotsubashi, Chiyoda-ku, where the university originated more than 140 years ago, in an area adjacent to the Imperial Palace Grounds and the Kanda booksellers district. This campus is a part of a 23-storied modern building called the National Center of Sciences, which is equipped with up-to-date communication technology, library, conference and other facilities.

The students of the Asian Public Policy Program (APPP) study both at Hitotsubashi's Main Campus and Chiyoda Campus.

Features of Graduate School <http://www.ipp.hit-u.ac.jp/english/index.html>

The School of International and Public Policy (IPP) is a professional graduate school established through the collaboration of the Economics and Law Faculties of Hitotsubashi University, in order to meet the demand for highly trained professionals in the public policy area who are able to undertake economic policy formulation and implementation based on a firm understanding of the theory and analytical implications of public policies. The faculty of the Graduate Schools in Economics and Law is augmented by a highly qualified teaching staff with practical policy experience, to create a top-notch place of learning and training. Current core faculty members include those with working experience as senior officials at IMF, Ministry of Finance, Bank of Japan, and the Cabinet Office, while the teaching staff includes senior professionals from public agencies, law firms and leading foreign academic institutions.

The School is based on four principles:

1. Provide professional education based on the foundation of state-of-the-art research
2. Foster leadership with multiple viewpoints through cross-cutting analysis
3. Emphasize multi-faceted and practical policy analysis
4. Foster leaders that will play an active role in the world

The APPP is a special program within IPP that is tailored to meet the educational and training requirements of mid-career public sector officials from the Asian region. In addition to its graduate program, APPP has hosted high-level seminars for regional policymakers in collaboration with the IMF, and is currently providing a training program for central bank officials at the State Bank of Vietnam and the Central Bank of Myanmar. The faculty also works as consultant for many public institutions.

Features of the Program <http://www.ipp.hit-u.ac.jp/appp/index.html>

The Master's program at the APPP targets young professionals in Asian governments, central banks and other policy-related organizations. The APPP has been and continues to be an important stepping-stone for such individuals to become fully-fledged fiscal or financial economists, economic planners, policy analysts, and policymakers in their governments as well as in international organizations.

The course distinguishes itself from other graduate programs offered in the public policy area with its strong focus on economic policy, with almost all of the required and elective courses structured around economics and its applications to policy. The program aims to equip its graduates with the knowledge and skills to analyze and develop policies against a sound knowledge of economic theory.

The Program is also especially attractive for the personalized attention it provides to the students. The class sizes are quite small – at most around 15, and each full-time faculty supervises 4 students per annual intake, and is able to give close guidance to their academic undertakings. The small size of the Program also allows students to build strong ties with their Fellow students, which can last a lifetime, and will be a valuable asset in his/her career.

Those with background in tax administration can join a one-year 6 credit practicum in tax administration offered by the National Tax College of Japan. Together with the theoretical courses offered on tax policies, APPP will also be an attractive option for officials in the taxations area.

Since 2000, the APPP has awarded the Master's degree in Public Policy to a large number of young professionals from across Asia. Most of them have come from ministries of finance, national tax agencies, planning agencies, central banks and regulatory agencies. An important network of the program's graduates now spans Asia.

All courses are offered in English, and provision is made for those for whom English is not their first language. The program strives to have the student body and faculty members as internationally-based as possible.

Information on the courses is available on the website

► <https://www.ipp.hit-u.ac.jp/appp/program/curriculum.html>

Necessary Curriculum to Obtain the Degrees

<http://www.ipp.hit-u.ac.jp/appp/program/curriculum.html>

The student must earn 44 credits from coursework and submit and successfully defend the master's thesis in order to be conferred the degree.

Within coursework, the completion of the Required Courses and the weekly Seminar is also required. The Required Courses are all provided in the first year, and those failing any of the courses must retake that course the following year. In addition, if a student fails in two or more Required Courses during the first year, then the student will not be allowed to proceed to the second year, and thus will not be able to graduate in two years. This usually means termination of the scholarship.

The attendance at Thesis Writing Tutorial and some designated courses is compulsory (but getting a passing grade is not a requirement for graduation). Apart from these, students need to select from the list of Elective Courses during his/her attendance at the University so as to earn 44 or more credits.

Writing and successfully defending the Master's thesis is the culmination of the two-year study at APPP and is one of the most important and memorable aspects of a student's academic life at APPP.

The work on the thesis will begin in the second half of the first year, and student will devote a substantial part of his/her second year to the thesis. A typical thesis will be a research into a policy question related to the student's home country. The thesis will review theoretical and empirical literature relating to the topic chosen, reflect on relevant country specific issues, and develop a testable model that will help to answer the policy question. The thesis will then conduct empirical testing of the model, from whose results policy recommendations will be drawn.

During work on the thesis, the student will be advised by faculty members. After submitting the thesis, the student will have to defend the thesis in front of the APPP faculty.

Asian Public Policy Program Course Description

Required Courses:

- Microeconomics for Public Policy
- Macroeconomics: Theory and Policy
- Fundamentals of Econometric Methods I
- Fundamentals of Econometric Methods II
- Economics of Public Sector I
- Economics of Public Sector II

Elective Courses:

These courses are intended to provide students with the necessary knowledge and skills to solve specific public policy problems.

Fiscal Policy

- Economic Analysis of Tax Systems
- Tax Policy I: Tax Policy and Systems
- Tax Policy II: International Taxation
- Fiscal Decentralization and Local Government Finance
- Field Research on Tax Administration

Public Sector Policy

- Economic Analysis of Public Investments
- Economic Analysis of Regulation and Public Enterprise
- Economic Analysis of Social Policy
- Economic Analysis of Social Security Systems

Monetary and Financial Policy

- Current Issues in International Economy and Finance
- Financial Sector Reform and Development
- Central Banking
- Asian Economic Development and Integration

Joint Course

- Japan's Foreign Policy Making I
- Japan's Fiscal and Monetary Policy Making

Current Issues – Workshops and Intensive Courses:

These courses provide lectures on current policy issues by outside lecturers who are at the forefront of policy, and from renowned specialists in the field.

- Workshop on Current Topics (WCT)

In 2020/21, the topics covered included Post U.S. Elections, Bank Business model, Economic Recovery and Sound Public Finances, Fiscal Policy, Distributed ledger technology, Minimum Wage Effects, Digital Payment and settlement platform, Monetary Policy, etc.

Financial Programming for Macroeconomic Policy Formulation

ESG Investing and SGDs

Issues on Public Policy I - X

Among the issues covered during previous years are Financial Programming, Financial Sector Development, Fiscal Management, Central Banking Challenges, Financial Economics, and Time Series Analysis. Most of the intensive courses are compulsory for all APPP students.

Seminar Work: (required for graduation)

In addition to the courses outlined above, students are required to belong to a "seminar group" led by an academic advisor. In each seminar, the participants pursue, under the guidance of the advisor, specific topics of their interest. The Master's thesis will be based on work done in the context of this seminar activity. Thus the participation in the seminar, a full year course carrying four credits, is a focal point of the student's study and research activities at APPP.

Thesis Writing Tutorial: (compulsory)

English Thesis Writing I (for first year students)

English Thesis Writing II (for second year students)

Thesis: (required for graduation)

Writing and successfully defending the Master's thesis is the culmination of the two-year study at APPP and is one of the most important and memorable aspects of a student's academic life at APPP.

The work on the thesis will begin in the second half of the first year, and students will devote a substantial part of their second year to the thesis. A typical thesis will be a research into a policy question related to the student's home country. The thesis will review theoretical and empirical literature relating to the topic chosen, reflect on relevant country specific issues, and develop a testable model that will help to answer the policy question. The thesis will then conduct empirical testing of the model, from whose results policy recommendations will be drawn.

During the work on the thesis, the student will be advised by faculty members. After submitting the thesis, the student will have to defend the thesis in front of the APPP faculty.

List of faculty members capable of guiding JDS Fellows

<http://www.ipp.hit-u.ac.jp/appp/about/faculty.html>

Masako Ii

Professor and Program Director, Asian Public Policy Program
School of International and Public Policy
(Ph.D., University of Wisconsin, Madison. Former World Bank Consultant and current member of Tax Advisory Council of the Japanese Government.)

Yoichi Nemoto

Professor, Asian Public Policy Program
School of International and Public Policy
(Ph.D. (Public Policy), Harvard University. Former President of Policy Research Institute, Ministry of Finance, Former Head of the ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office (AMRO))

Toshitaka Sekine

Professor, Asian Public Policy Program
School of International and Public Policy
(D.Phil in Economics, Oxford University. Former Director-General, Institute for Money and Economic Studies, Bank of Japan)

Masahiro Hori

Professor, Asian Public Policy Program
School of International and Public Policy
(Ph.D., University of California, Berkeley, Former Senior Research Fellow, Economic and Social Research Institute, Cabinet Office, Government of Japan)

Tomoyuki Shimoda

Professor, Asian Public Policy Program
School of International and Public Policy
(On secondment from Bank of Japan)

Shinji Asanuma	Visiting Professor, Asian Public Policy Program School of International and Public Policy
Motohiro Sato	Professor, Public Economics Program School of International and Public Policy
Masayuki Anma	Daiwa Securities
Akiyuki Asatsuma	Rikkyo University
Mukul Asher	Guest Professor, Asian Public Policy Program School of International and Public Policy Former Professorial Fellow National University of Singapore
Keiko Honda	Visiting Professor Columbia University (Former Chief Executive Officer of the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency (MIGA), the World Bank Group.)
Hideaki Ishiguro	Jobu University
Michito Kitamura	NISHIMURA & ASAHI
Thomas Meyer	Visiting Professor, Asian Public Policy Program School of International and Public Policy School of International Studies Nichibei Kaiwa Gakuin International Education Center
Stoshi Nakagawa	Asian Pacific Initiative
Bandid Nijathaworn	Former Deputy Governor, Bank of Thailand
Tatsuyoshi Okimoto	Australian National University
Jay Rosengard	Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University
Reza Siregar	International Center for Applied Finance and Economics
Tetsuya Utamura	Ministry of Finance
Yoshio Wada	QUNIE CORPORATION Senior Advisor
Ikuko Yoshikawa	Program Coordinator, Asian Public Policy Program School of International and Public Policy

(Note) The underlined professors are core resident faculty of the Program. JDS Fellows admitted to the program will be assigned to one of them, under whose guidance they will engage in seminar work and research for their thesis. The assignment will reflect the background and research interest of the scholar. Other faculty members provide lectures for the courses, and are available to give advice and guidance regarding the content of his/her course.

Academic Schedule

ASIAN PUBLIC POLICY PROGRAM Academic Calendar 2021/2022(Tentative)

September 3 – 10, 2021	Preparatory courses Guidance on the Program for the incoming students (enrollment registration, IT guidance, fire and disaster drill, medical check, etc.)
September 13	Opening ceremony, guidance for all APPP students
September 13	Beginning of Fall/Winter quarters
September 9 - 17	Course registration
November 18 - 19	Class cancelation due to Ikkyo-sai (student festival)
November 26	Make-up classes
December 25 - January 3, 2022	Winter recess
January 4 – 7	Final examination for the Fall/Winter semester
January 11 - February 4	Intensive courses
February 5 - March 6	Spring recess I
March 7 -25	Intensive courses
March 26 - March 31	Spring recess II
March 31	End of Fall/Winter quarters 2021
April 1, 2022	Beginning of the Spring/Summer semester 2022
April 6 - 13	Course registration
May 9	Deadline for the submission of Master's thesis
Mid-late June	Alumni Seminar
May 30 – June 3	Oral Defense and Final Examination for MPP candidates
July 19	End of Spring/Summer quarter Classes
July 21	Announcement of successful MPP candidates
July 20 - 22	Final examination for the Spring/Summer quarters
July 25 -29	Intensive courses
July 29	Graduation of MPP students,
July 30 – September 11	Summer recess
September 15	End of Spring/Summer quarters 2022
(September 12	Opening ceremony for AY2022/23)

Facilities

Students have full access to our university's main library and that of our Institute of Economic Research. Single rooms in the University dormitory in Kunitachi are offered at the time of enrollment. The number of family units is limited and allocation is based on availability and subject to lottery in the second year.

Message for Applicants

Our Program aims to provide young professionals in Asian governments and public sector institutions with theoretical basis, analytical skills, understanding of best practices, and policy formulation capacity in public finance, fiscal and monetary operation, and other relevant policy areas. The academic work is challenging and demanding, but in the end will be extremely rewarding. Graduating Hitotsubashi with the Master's degree will provide the student with a sense of accomplishment and confidence that they have mastered the skills to engage productively in public policy in their home country.

As English and mathematics skills are quite important in understanding the courses and benefitting fully from the Program, we strongly urge applicants to brush up their English and mathematics.